GOVERNOR LETS LOUISIANA TAKE UP KLAN BURDEN

Has Done His Part by State, Nation.

BY ROBERT LEE.

[Copyright, 1923, By The Chicago Tribune.]

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 1.—[Special.]

Gov. John M. Parker of Louisiana thinks that his share of the klan burden soon will be over. He thinks he has done all that can be done in his official capacity as governor. He is careful not to overstep the boundary line between what he regards as his duty in bringing to the attention of the public a hideous attack on American citizenship and the right of the public to determine for itself the action it shall take.

The prosecution of the klansmen who on the night of Aug. 24 beat to death and mutilated the bodies of Watt Daniels and Thomas F. Richards, two men whose offense was that they openly denounced klan methods, is to be left in the hands of the regularly chosen representatives of the people of Morehouse parish.

Proceeding with Caution.

There is a large question now in the minds of the governor's advisers that anything more than general evidence should be offered in the open hearing of next Friday. "Muffled threats of murder against any who may be so bold as to testify openly against the slayers of Daniels and Richards have suggested caution."

There are many witnesses.

One of them lives in the penitentiary at Baton Rouge on his own request. This man is expected to testify before the grand jury that he saw and recognized a klansman closely connected with Morehouse parish officials who as the driver of the bloody truck which carried the remains of the murdered men to the precipitous banks of Lake La Fourche.

Open Hearing to Be Brief.

Gov. Parker's position, determined after many conferences, is that he should do no more than lay before the proper authorities the facts of his investigation. Then it must rest with the people. In view of the fact that witnesses inevitably will be intimidated and perhaps killed and that the government hopes to lay before the grand jury all evidence unblushingly by klan interference, it now seems likely that the open hearing will be of short duration.

Chiefly important is the report of the physicians on the conditions of the bodies and the establishment of identity. It is hoped to offer enough evidence in the open hearing to remove any doubts in the minds of fair grand jurors. Then a grand jury will be called to the regular order and the direct evidence of the klan murders laid before it.

Will Leave Governor Free.

"The governor," said one in authority, "cannot afterwards be said to have influenced prosecution. If any or all of the fifty or more men in the brutal murders of Aug. 24 should be sentenced to be hanged, Gov. Parker will be free to exercise his executive prerogative without any suggestion of having been concerned in the actual prosecution."

Gov. Parker spent the last day of the old year in his office. There is as much of romance in this ancient town of Baton Rouge as in the more draped swamps and forests in the region of Mer Rouge. One step from the train to find himself so directly confronting the medieval capital building that only a slight exertion of fancy makes it seem about to fall upon him. It is exact, prim, and severe in its lines as if painted on a stage curtain. And its nearness impresses the visitor with this proximity of the theater. It is like a castle plucked out of the fourteenth century. Its turrets and bastions are straight and unyielding.

Two police heroes, wounded, fought desperate battles with criminals yesterday, killing one and capturing two after they had received their own injuries. A third policeman was beaten insensible by fifty rioters. The attack on him resulted in the closing of a notorious south side saloon. A fourth policeman shot his man down as the latter drew an automatic pistol.

Stories of the policemen's exploits are subjoined.

Detective Sergeant Fred Kohler last night killed one bandit and captured another in a gun fight with four Mexicans in which Kohler himself was wounded.

Kohler was standing at Clark street and Archer avenue about 11:30 p.m. waiting for a car to take him to work when the four Mexicans passed by. Their actions seemed suspicious and Kohler kept an eye on them as they walked west in Archer avenue. As they reached LaSalle street he saw flashes from a pistol and heard the reports.

Wounded by First Shot.

The detective ran to the scene of the shooting, and as he approached one of the Mexicans opened fire.

The first shot caught Kohler in one leg and he emptied his gun at the bandit. All six of his shots took effect, the man being killed instantly.

The other three started to run, but Kohler grabbed one and threw him to the ground.

Policemen on duty near the shooting rushed to Kohler's rescue when they heard the firing, but the other two Mexicans escaped.

The dead man's name is not known.

He was about 35 years old and dressed roughly.

Kohler was taken to Mercy hospital where it was found that his wound is not serious.

Any setting is likely to succeed.

In some form of international loan for Germany and together with his associates on the British delegation, he has come with approval the suggestion of the American secretary of state that an international committee determine the amount of reparations to be expected.

France Suspects Germany.

The conviction held by Premier Poincaré of France is that a change in heart on the part of Germany is required above all other considerations.

He believes German's plans for the future are based upon a policy of resistance to the execution of the Versailles treaty, and any effort to help her regards as useless until the Berlin government decides in earnest to fulfill its obligations.

Extension of the present partial moratorium, which expires on Jan. 15, and the raising of cash for Germany in the international market, will, in the French view, be nullified by the continued German opposition to payment of her debts, so that action such as France now contemplates will be naturally forced upon the allies.

The Belgian and Italian governments appear now to lean more toward the French view than toward the British, but with some disposition to seek middle ground.

Italians to Offer Pisa.

The Italian delegation will present a conciliatory program which calls for guarantees to satisfy France, but without penalties, so as to meet the British objection, relying upon the result of making the guarantee productive without the use of force.

The Belgian premier, M. T. Poincaré, who worked strenuously in London last August to bring Mr. Lloyd George and M. Poincaré together, also seeks to harmonize the French and British programs, which, it is understood, he thinks could be done if the German government would unreservedly affirm its willingness to fulfill the reparations clauses of the treaty to the full extent of the nation's resources.

M. Millerand Reverses French View.

Alexandre Millerand, president of the republic, made a brief forecast of the French attitude on the questions concerning before the premiers' conference by replying this afternoon to the good wishes of the diplomatic corps presented by Mr. Garretti, the papal nuncio.

Mr. Garretti referred to the extension last year of winter as a complete peace, and said war far from having been realized. In replying President Millerand said:

"Now this new year bring us finally the complete peace which it would

WIDOW ACCUSED OF HAVING SLAIN A MILLIONAIRE

Beaumont, Tex., Jan. 1.—Mrs. Lilian Knox, charged by complaint with the murder of her husband, Hiram Knox, millionaire lumberman, on the night of Nov. 23, will be given a preliminary hearing Wednesday at Hennepin hall before Justice of the Peace W. H. Pratt. The widow was arrested today.

"There will be other arrests," said District Attorney F. R. Adams tonight.

Hiram Knox was one of the wealthiest men in the lumber business, having inherited an estate worth nearly $10,000,000.

Mrs. Knox built the Bronson and Hemphill railroad to gratify the wishes of her neighbors. In the operation of the railroad and the Knox sawmill she was the dominant figure. She paid off the men and did all things required of a general manager. In addition to this she looked after the retail lumber yard at Mission, Tex.

On the morning of Nov. 23 Knox was found dead in his bed with a bullet wound through his head. It appeared at first as if he committed suicide, but ten days afterwards Judge Pratt, acting as coroner, returned a verdict of murder. Since that time rumors have been numerous and during the last week or ten days it appeared as if no arrest would be made.

Knox's widow, Mrs. Phillips, hid for days after jail escape discovered.

Second day report of kidnaping of Mrs. Mer Rouge klan woman appears to throw doubt as to which side did kidnaping.

Decoy Call Traps Officers; One Killed, Four Wounded

Sapulpa, Okla., Jan. 1.—One police officer was killed and four others were wounded tonight when four Negroes hidden in a darkened restaurant fired on them without warning. The police received a decoy call a few minutes before the shooting. The five officers were sent to the restaurant and were met with a hall of bullets.

After the Negroes fled a large quantity of ammunition was found stacked on the counter. The four Negroes were armed with high powered rifles.

A posse of 200 men was formed immediately and a hunt was under way.

Kleagle Ordered Retired.

Policeman George Green, who was reported to be a Klan Kleagle, was the one who was ordered retired on a pension.

Cohen had previously asked for retirement after he had become a target during the investigation.

The other four Klansmen struck at were all members of engine company No. 117, stationed at Chicago and Laramie avenues. Their new assignments follow:

Capt. William Hind to engine company No. 6, 559 Maxwell street.

Gilbert Nelson to hook and ladder company No. 2, Washington and Clinton streets.

Albert Peterson to reserve roll of drivers.

Joseph Gindlack to hook and ladder company No. 19, Chicago avenue and May street.

Hind was hit hard by an order which put him in the heart of the Ghetto and Gindlack by one that sent him into the center of a Polish district.

Others Hit by Shift.

The same order that transferred the Klansmen also separated members of the company who did not belong to the secret organization.

The order, while inflicting what is regarded as punishment, does not conflict with the civil service regulations which protect the firemen in their positions, transfers being made for "the good of the service" without the intervention of the merit board.

It is declared the order was the direct result of trouble which arose last week during the fire at the Exchange building in the skyscrapers.

Capt. Hind was present at this fire, and it is said that threats against him were made by the spectators and other firemen.

FARMERS JOIN MOVE TO ADMIT ALIEN TOILERS

Aid Manufacturers as Unions Fight.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special]—The big industries of the country and farm organizations have joined in a determined drive to procure such relaxation of the immigration restriction law as will relieve the present shortage of common labor.

With the backing of the senators and representatives of the leading industrial and agricultural states a concerted effort will be made to obtain legislation at this session of congress which will operate to admit probably not less than 100,000 aliens in excess of the number of immigrants coming in under the 2 per cent quota law.

The house committee on immigration will give a hearing next Thursday to a committee of the National Manufacturers' association, which will propose three major modifications of the present restriction law. The plan was worked out in consultation with agricultural leaders and its essential features were approved at the recent meeting of the American Farm Bureau federation in Chicago.

What Manufacturers Want.

The recommendations of the manufacturers' committee follow:

1. That in fixing the quota of each nationality or otherwise admissible aliens under the present law, due regard should be given to the accelerated annual emigration from the United States of persons of such nationality.

2. That the secretary of labor shall be authorized, upon the presentation to him of satisfactory evidence of a continuing shortage of labor of a particular class or type, to admit otherwise admissible aliens in excess of the quota until his judgment such condition is improved.

3. That permission shall be made for physical examination of all aliens at ports of embarkation or where their passports are vised except that such requirement shall be waived upon assurance of another government that satisfactory examination has been made.

Unions to Fight Move.

This move will be resisted stubbornly by organized labor on the ground that increased immigration of foreign workers will result in a lowering of wages. Samuel Gompers concluded that there would be no labor shortage if wages permitting an American standard of living were paid for unskilled labor by industries from which the native born have been driven by alien competition.

The cabinet is divided on the proposed measure. Senator Tremayne Marion favors it, while Secretary of Labor Davis has withheld his approval. In his recent message to congress President Harding frowned on lifting the immigration ban but proposed instead the establishment of selective examination of intending immigrants abroad.

Need to Prove Need.

The recommendation that the secretary of labor be given authority to admit aliens in excess of quotas to relieve labor pressures, in the proponents' view, would not result in an increased volume of immigration. It would be incumbent upon industry or agriculture to prove that a shortage of labor of a particular class or type prevailed before the secretary of labor could act.

During the first year of the operation of the present 2 per cent restriction law, 100,000 aliens were admitted to the United States, of which 342,563 actually were admitted. Many of the northern European countries did not fill their quotas, while most of those of southern Europe did.

During the fiscal year 1920-21, before the passage of the restrictive law, immigrants to the number of 655,900 came into the United States.

Opinion on Congress View.

Whether congress will be willing to relax immigration restriction is doubtful.

Representative Johnson (Rep., Wash.), chairman of the house committee on immigration, has declared himself against letting down the bars. It is expected that the house committee will report a bill which will not provide for any material relaxation and that after the measure reaches the senate industry and agriculture will renew their plea before the senate committee.

BONUS BLANKS A-PLenty; NONE FOR SERVICE MEN

Thousands of Forms Tied Up at Springfield.

The TRIBUNE'S Friend of the Soldier department will resume its work of aiding ex-service men in their efforts to obtain the $50,000,000 soldiers' bonus, today. The usual staff of clerks, notaries, and experts will be on hand in the office at 431 North Michigan avenue.

Despite the fact that tens of thousands of the official application blanks for which the veterans have been waiting for nearly two months are available in Springfield, the department has none for distribution. The limited supply the paper was able to obtain was soon exhausted and appeals to the authorities in Springfield for more have been unavailing.

Aid in Filling Forms.

The Friend of the Soldier department, however, is prepared to go ahead with the work of assisting the veterans in filling in the blanks distributed. Any ex-service man who has one of the forms is invited to bring it to the soldier's bureau, where experts will aid him in answering the questions.

In the meantime the work of copying and certifying the discharge papers of soldiers will go ahead. The bonus law provides that each applicant for a bonus must submit with his application a certified copy of his discharge or other separation from the service.

Discharge Forms on Hand.

The Friend of the Soldier has thousands of blank discharge forms and veterans are invited to bring in their papers and have them copied and certified free of charge.

By having the discharges certified now, it will greatly facilitate the filing of the official blanks when more are available. Discharge forms will be distributed by mail if the veterans will send in self-addressed and stamped envelopes and specify the kind of a blank wanted—army, navy, naval reserve, marine or officers.

STEPS INTO PATH OF TARGET SHOT; HIT BY BULLET

Arthur Keinrich, 27, was shot in the stomach yesterday when he accidentally stepped into the path of a .22 caliber bullet fired by a boy who was shooting at a target near his home, 443 South Arlesian avenue. He was taken to the county hospital, where it was said his condition is not critical.

"It was just an accident and I don't want any one arrested," Arthur told police. "I didn't see the boys shooting and they didn't see me and I accidentally stepped in front of one of them just as he fired."

Two houses were robbed in Evanston during the day, those of J. D. Michel, 1515 Lincoln avenue, and Archibald McKinley, 805 Monticello street.

December was the busiest and most successful month in the history of the police force, according to Chief of Detectives Michael Higgins. Several murders, burglaries, auto holdups were solved. Many of them were of the so-called "cheatless" type. Arrests totaled 1,850.

DRAWING ROOM
BANDITS HOLD
AN "AT HOME"

"Sheik" Victims Recover
Stolen Property.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.
A quintette of perfumed gunmen sat in Captain Harding's reception room at the Shakespeare avenue police station yesterday afternoon, and carefully knifed the creases in their high-buttoned trousers, with perfect drawing room manners and a country club consciousness of gesture they reflected that a dirty police station is really no place to take a bandit.

In between times the youths stood in a receiving line and were presented to a number of New Year guests; men seeking money and expensive overcoats; two brothers anxious to retrieve silk-lined topcoats; gentlemen interested in the return of gold watches and monogrammed penknives; others plining to see their diamond rings again. By the time the "at home" was over, much of the $7,000 worth of loot had been identified or located.

These in Beleevine Line.

The five hosts at the party were Walter Nemeyer, Harry Swanson Frank Neumann and Harold Smith and Louis. They are all in only three things. None have any previous record, all are recent converts to the game of stickup, and each is the last word and an echo in masculine fashion, manners and poise.

The men are garbed in "simple elegance" as inconspicuous as men of their profession could desire, with plain white shirt stripes and colors are so vulgar, plain, but smartly cut and tailored. Well buttoned trousers, narrow cuffs, semi-correct back and exquisite shoulders; droppitch silk hose, black patent leather shoes, and fawn colored spats. Individuality is expressed in the ties and the handkerchiefs. The snappy jam bow tie has it to 2 over the crepe cravat, and the silk kerchief cutouts are corded bordered one.

Tell of Stickups

In soft voiced words, shot through with sarcasm, "Yes, sir," "Yes, ma'am," "I beg your pardon," they tell of their stickup jobs, in which they often used a monkey wrench for a gun. They intersperse a technical vagrancy's discussion of their graduation to a regular gun, with the childlike, inconsistent conclusion that, "If the other fellow had a gun, we figured we could run away."

With boyish frankness they relate their escapades at the Merry Garden, balloons and the Marigold Gardens, where they would stride across the room to pick up a girl's handkerchief for her, and later run down an alley to relieve the girl's escort of his coat, hat, watch, and money.

"But we didn't get much money," Frank Nemeyer can hardly keep the gleam out of his eyes, "had more than two or three dollars at a time. You see, they never have much left when they are through cabaret."

Newman is the philosopher and the spokesman of the crowd. Employed as a cutter, he made $60 a week and entertained his friends at night in his Ford car. Growing tired of footing the bills for new tires and motor accessories, he showed well bred interest in their offer to "get the tires. As for stolen clothing, the idea amused him, as he surveyed his outfit.

Bought Gifts for Girl.

"I have one of the watches," Newman admitted, "but, of course, I bought it from one of the boys; paid $100 for it."

In the matter of gifts to his girl he was particular. The pearl necklace he gave her for Christmas was bought and paid for, he reiterates.

Walter Nemeyer, a gentle youth and the newest recruit to the crowd, was tempted about a month ago, when he made up his Christmas list and discovered he had not enough money.

The Lennon brothers don't fit into the "sheik tableau" quite so well. They show just a trace of being hard-boiled.

Henry Swanson, the fifth member, has a sort of humor about him when Mr. Ginsburg, who keeps a pawn shop opposite the Northwestern station, interviews the boys on the theft of his couple, which they stole from him two weeks ago at Kedzie and Milwaukee avenues; for it was to his shop that Henry unknowingly drove Mr. Ginsburg's machine two days later and parked it in front of the store while he entered and traded a stolen watch for $1.

GOVERNOR LETS LOUISIANA TAKE UP KLAN BURDEN

Has Done His Part by the State and Nation.

where we are now working. Each phase of his conversation is architecturally a part of the whole.

Not Up to Date Office Holder.

His office is a room of governors since 1847. In one corner is a telephone booth. There are no whistles or rattles. There is no soft footed aside door open. When the telephone rings the governor excuses himself and answers it. When the visitor offers a polite gesture of withdrawal from the room until the governor has finished his conversation, he calls out: "Sit right where you are. The door to this room hasn't been closed since I came here."

In another corner is a console of pre-war type. A plain roll top desk is against the wall. On top of the desk is a framed photograph of a champion bull. The governor tosses a forefinger at it. "I'd rather have raised that bull," he says. "I'm a dirt farmer. I never held office in my life before this term as governor. I'm not going to run for any more offices."

In the middle of the floor is an old fashioned work table. Three or four chairs of the loll type.

Shows Letter from Roosevelt.

"I want to show you this," he said. "It is a letter from Roosevelt." The letter says there have been rumors of discord between them. It concludes with the declaration that "no man or any group of men can come between you and me."

"You may remember," says the governor, "that I was associated with Roosevelt in the progressive campaign. In the face of that and in the face of the other attitudes I have taken I was elected governor. I think all men should take a hearty interest in public affairs. I have always done my best."

Hill Mail Is Flooded.

In the governor's office there is a flood of mail. Letters come at the rate of 200 a day. Every day seems to bring mushroom Klan newspapers. They obviously are editions published once for effect. They are filled with vituperation. They devote most space to proving that the Klan did not kill Mrs. Richards. They know how difficult it was to disband it after its mission had been accomplished. The Parkers seem destined to be disbanders of Klans. This present Parker started his disbanding a good while ago. And he is warning to the work.

The Peril of Secret Societies.

The governor is chiefly concerned about the Klan in the rural districts. It is his belief that the cities can take care of themselves. The inhabitant of a city can call a policeman. But what chance has an isolated planter or farmer? If he resists he is alone and to resist to the field his family will be set upon. Capt. Skipworth, the exalted cyclops of the Morehouse parish Klan, is known to have led a party of masked raiders against a farmer.

But in the official list of officers of the Morehouse Klan there appears this:

"Klahee, J. F. Carpenter."

The Klahee is one of the lodge officials. He functions in the robes ceremonialities held at night in the depths of some wooded swamp when the hooded brethren gather around the fire.

The gubernatorial investigation finds that the propaganda of the Klan is adroit to the last nuance of personal feeling. Lame duck ministers—this is a phrase borrowed from the Rev. John Roach, who is the stone-faced standard-bearer of the Klan organization. They are first approached with donations out of a generous hand and then asked to pray for the success of such godly enterprises. A few conspicuous business and professional men are then gathered in.

"Among the Elect."

They are easily won over. The race hatreds in the face of the fact that Louisiana has always been largely Catholic, and that the religious question never is heard of, Catholic and Protestant is a division only in worship. It is not carried outside the church.

Gov. Parker has been remarkable for carrying his fight into the open. He has been careful to exhibit his hosting of masked and nightshirts showing their white shirts underneath, in the violent scenes. On one occasion, when he was invited to speak at the opening of the state fair at Shreveport, he was met by the usual solemn and surprisingly diplomatic reception committee.

Fights in the Open.

"Governor," said the chairman, "we know that you will be received with the greatest interest and we are glad to welcome you here. But we may ask you, as tactfully as we know, to refrain from touching upon the Ku Klux Klan."

In his own words the governor told the chairman that there might not be anything they wanted to hear that would be as far as they could get. When he found himself facing 15,000 people in the fair ground he let go approximately as follows:

"Governor," said the chairman, "we know that you will be received with the greatest interest and we are glad to welcome you here. But we may ask you, as tactfully as we know, to refrain from touching upon the Ku Klux Klan."

As it turned out, he got out of line to the maximum, or not at all strangely, as the facts may strike one, these are from ministers whose gentle souls are twisting in anguish that the governor should waste the public funds in the hunt for masked and atrocious murderers by night in the woods of Morehouse parish.

It must be out of line to say, however, that the government, as the facts may strike one, these are twisting in anguish that the governor should waste the public funds in the hunt for masked and atrocious murderers by night in the woods of Morehouse parish.

WITNESS VICTIM OF KNOWLEDGE AGAINST KLAN

Kidnapped by "Terrors" and Perhaps Slain.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Mer Rouge, La., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Indisputable evidence that Harold Teegstrom, bookkeeper for the Southern Carbon company, has been kidnapped and either murdered or sent into exile, by agents of the Ku Klux Klan developed this evening.

Teegstrom is known to have held definite evidence against the Klan, who killed Wait Daniels and Thomas Richards. The nature of this evidence, which was of a character failing absolutely the connection of certain klansmen with the murders, is being kept secret, although it is thoroughly understood that Klan officials knew of all the efforts of federal investigators made to get Teegstrom and determined to foreclose his evidence by extreme measures.

An automobile load of "terrors" took Teegstrom from his room at night. He even left behind him his Christmas check. He was dressed in his working clothes.

The confirmation of the report that Teegstrom had been kidnapped was followed tonight by the discovery that a planter and his wife and baby were fired upon by a masked crew in a touring car within a stone's throw of the Mer Rouge town limits. One of the bullets passed within an inch of the infant's head. The planter snatched up a rifle and tried to return the shots but the bullet failed to work.

DISCOVER CABIN HAMMER SLAYER USED IN ESCAPE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1.—Discovery of a cabin in a lonely cañon near Los Angeles where Mrs. Clara Phillips, "hammer murderer," who escaped from the Los Angeles county jail on Dec. 11, concealed herself for at least four days, after the jail break, was announced at the sheriff's office tonight.

The officers said they did not believe Mrs. Phillips remained in the cabin more than four days, as the purchases ceased after that period. They said they believed she was transported by friends either to another state or to Mexico.

Looking Forward

IN the long run, purpose, clearly seen and strongly held, must prevail over chance and accident. Children now learning to walk will spend their days in a United States which will be in 1953 what the true users of time are even now planning and striving toward. The greatness of this nation will be what we can build to, not what we can get by with.

The days of Moses are over. No benevolent genius of thirty or fifty years hence is ever going to hand a new world to his grateful fellow citizens. It's no use waiting for him. William Allen White's vision of an irritable, bald-headed person pulling the levers to start up a new order of things has faded even from the author's own mind. Not only is the future to be for the average man, but its realization depends utterly upon him. What is done for all cannot last long unless done of and by all.

Collier's has said often that its purpose is to show how we may plan and work toward a better life for all. Let us see, by testing this week's issue, how well we are doing our job of showing what can be done.

WILLIAM R. BASSET points the way to better business.

SAMUEL CROWTHER tells us where higher wages are coming from.

HAROLD CARY shows that nearly every family will be able to own a car.

MRS. BLATCH gives her picture of a better way of government.

SAMUEL RANCK sees a vision of the ideal city, in which all will be happy.

And Collier's platform for industrial peace is made complete.

Every week in more than a million homes, Collier's is read by alert, intelligent men and women whose substantial progress is measured by the thinking they do. They provide a vast, open market for products that can be sold by advertising.

SMALL'S 'PLUMS' WIN HIM LITTLE GAIN IN SENATE

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Len Small and the members of the old "senate combine" are making desperate efforts to break the lineup of Republican senators backing the autonomy movement in the organization of the upper house of the Illinois general assembly.

Strong inducements, promises of rich rewards, have been made to several of the signers of the Glenn-Buck-Barbour round robin to get them to go back on their signatures. Apparently, they have succeeded in one case, that of Senator Harry G. Wright, of De Kalb. He signed the agreement, but now says that he will not consider himself bound by it.

Brother Getting State Pay.

Two reasons for his going over to the Small-Buck combine scheme have been given. He has a brother, a physician, who is said to be drawing $5,000 a year on the state pay roll. And Senator Wright has been offered the chairmanship of the appropriations committee.

One other withdrawal from the list of those insisting upon independent organization of the senate has preceded the loss of Wright. Senator Fred B. Roos of Forest Park had announced himself as a candidate for chairman of the caucus to be held at Springfield tonight.

When Senator Clarence F. Buck talked to him, Buck did not have the round robin with him, but Roos gave him a letter containing assurances that he was in sympathy with the movement and would join it.

Said to Back Barr-Etelson.

What inducements led him to join up with the Small senators has not been disclosed. It is reported that Roos and one or two others, senators elected as anti-Small candidates are highly in favor of a continuance in power of the old "combine" headed by Senators Barr and Etelson. These senators are said to consider the methods of the old combine as extremely effective and worth while.

On the loss of both Roos and Wright, it was said cannot block the election of Senator Omer Glenn as chairman of the party caucus. Even without them the antimachine senators say they have signed up enough men who won't go back on their word" to make the result certain.

Twenty-five Signers in List.

The signers of the round robin are the following:

Barbour,
Swift,
Turnbaugh,
Mason,
O. W. Smith,
Hamilton,
Gray,
McKinley,
Garrison,
Duvall,
Mills,
Webster.

Bailey,
Dunlap,
N. E. Smith,
Clegg,
Wright,
Cuthbertson,
Forrester,
Seancy,
West,
Schulze.

This is a total of twenty-five. Senators A. C. Clark and Lowell Mason have left in the caucus. That would leave a total of forty votes in the caucus with twenty-one the majority required for control. And Senator Randolph, Mason's successor in the caucus, twenty votes would control.

Senators Wright, the independents have twenty-four and they are sure Small cannot take four away from them.

In reference to the organization of the lower house the situation is not so definite. But it is expected that the backers of Representative David H.

Shanahan will be busy at Springfield early today.

CUTS AWAY FROM SMALL

"BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT."

Springsfield, Jan. 2.—(Special)— Gov. Small's plan to control the Fifteenth general assembly suffered several setbacks here tonight, one of them when a southern Illinois senator who followed the administration in 1921 went to the executive mansion today and flatly asserted his independence. He said he preferred to take his chances with his folks back home than to rely on the speaker and Mayor Thompson would do for him.

F. Scott McBride, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, arrived here tonight and immediately went into conference concerning the house speakership, which is more quibbled than ever, with thirteen candidates already on hand. Many members were predicting that the speakership would never be decided in time to call tomorrow night. If conditions remain unchanged, an indefinite deadlock is in prospect.

Gov. Small relies on an alliance with the Anti-Saloon league in the selection of a speaker, but McBride's control of dry votes is more uncertain than it has been for many sessions. Some drys of both houses are all but in open revolt against the dictatorship of the league leaders. President among them is Senator Earl B. Seancy, who went through a primary and election fight with the Anti-Saloon league.

New complications developed for Small tonight with a move to refuse Adolph Marks a seat in the senate.

STREET BUREAU'S MULTIPLE BOSS SYSTEM SCORED

City Club Calls $197,500
Extra Chiefs Useless.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The directors of the City club sent a protest yesterday to the state legislature against the appointment of fifteen new ward superintendents for the street cleaning bureaus. The club says that such a course will only "mean an added waste of public funds and a further delay in properly organizing the work of the bureaus."

"The present plan of organization is called all right, unnecessary, unnecessarily expensive and contrary to the recommendations of every commission appointed in past years to analyze the problem of city waste collection and disposal."

Twice the finance committee has turned down the plan, but the City club says it is planned to slip the scheme into the annual appropriation ordinance when it gets to the floor of the council.

$197,500 Expenses.

There is now one street cleaning superintendent for each ward, but the number of wards has been increased from thirty-five to fifty. The added cost of the proposed fifteen new superintendents has been estimated by the finance committee at $197,500 a year, without any additional street sweepers. The $197,500 covers only overhead and maintenance expense instead of fifteen new jobs.

The City club would reduce the number of superintendents to fourteen, as suggested by the last city waste commission.

This organization gives the cost in 1915—under the fourteen superintendents plan—as $1,956,107, and 1921 as $4,510,118, and adds that the appropriation for last year "was 100 per cent over 1915 expenses."

Cut Service as Overly Meant.

The 1915 estimates contemplated a frequent and complete collection and removal of waste, while the 1921 and 1922 costs covered an inadequate and incomplete service which had to be supplemented by private service at a very large cost to the householders," reads the letter to the finance committee.

"In the face of an increased cost of 100 per cent in six years and a service not more than 50 per cent efficient, the taxpayers are justified in demanding that the present inefficient plan of organization be not further expanded."

"The City club wants the aldermen to keep their hands off the cleaning of the streets and let the taxpayers who protest say that that service "is surely administrative function."

It continues: "The function of the alderman is legislative. He is chosen to determine policies, not to administer them; to make appropriations, not to spend them."

1,000 WOMEN GIVE DINNER TO NEW ASSEMBLY

promises us, you men of Illinois, That you'll remember when we've said good-by, That we, the women voters of the state, Are watching you to see you legislate.

One thousand women will mix lyrics with legislation Wednesday night when they sing the above song to the state senators and representatives who are to be their guests at dinner in Springfield, following the convening of the legislature.

The women, under the auspices of the Illinois League of Women Voters, will pay honor to Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, the first woman representative.

Mrs. O'Neill, accompanied by the Chicago delegation of women, more than two hundred, will leave on a special train over the Chicago and Alton early Wednesday morning.

Misses will proceed at the banquet and the speakers will include Dr. Eva Wilson of the Federated clubs; Miss Alice Greenacre, Illinois League of Women Voters; Miss Jessie Binford, Juvenile Protective Association; Mrs. R. Maynard Reed, Illinois Council Parent-Teachers' association; Miss Margaret Haley, state director of the National Consumers' Trade Union women; Miss Jeanette Rankin, first woman congressman; Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill.

Mrs. Henry W. Cheney, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, is in charge of the celebration and has planned thirty songs exemplifying woman's place in politics.

VALUATION OF LARGER ROADS BEING REACHED

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—(Special) —Now comes the final values of the properties of a large number of railway systems in the United States soon will be issued by the interstate commerce commission. These reports will cover some of the greatest systems.

Before the valuation work is completed, it is expected that the total cost will exceed $100,000,000. The government has expended close to $24,000,000 on the work to date, while the railroads have spent approximately $40,000,000.

The importance of bringing the valuation work to a close has been emphasized by the decision of the commission by the transportation act to prescribe rates that will yield a fair return on the value of the property devoted to transportation.

The valuation bureau of the commission has given particular attention in the last few months to the valuation of the so-called $25,000,000 roads, which are the main arteries of the nation for completion of the tentative reports on all except six of the $25,000,000 roads before next June and a number of these reports will be made public soon. The remaining six roads will be covered in reports to be made in the fiscal year 1923-24.

Because of the litigation which will precede the fixing of the final values it is expected that many years will elapse before the end desired by congress will have been attained. After considering protests against the tentative valuations, the commission will issue reports to the Supreme court of the United States.

giving the final values. In many cases these will be carried by the railroads to the Supreme court of the United States.

FELTON CHARGES SHIPSTEAD ERRS IN RAIL ATTACK

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

S. M. Felton, president of the Western Railway Presidents' Committee on Public Relations, in an open letter yesterday severely criticized Senator-elect Henrik Shipstead, Minnesota, for alleged misrepresentation of railroad matters in a recent public address made in Washington.

Mr. Felton first took issue with the reported statement that "farmers ship sheep to market and then get bills for the balance of freight charges due. What they get for the sheep will not even cover the cost of shipping."

"That is not true," he said. "As you stated them," declared Mr. Felton, "and your statement never was more incorrect than on the day you made it."

Quotes Rated on Sheep.

"On that day sheep sold in South St. Paul, according to Mr. Felton, for 6½ cents a pound, or $7.80 for a single deck carload of sheep weighing 12,000 pounds. From a representative point, Northfield, Minn., the freight rates to St. Paul on a carload of sheep was only $11.50. In other words, the cost of shipping the sheep in St. Paul was 4½ cents a pound, or $6.60 for a carload. The freight rate from Northfield to Chicago was $52.50, or only 8 per cent of the selling price."

Cost of Operation.

Mr. Felton also criticized this statement, reported to have been made by Mr. Shipstead:

"A railroad train operated by five men can now carry ten times as big a load as it could carry ten years ago. Yet in spite of the great labor cost reduction per ton mile, it costs the farmer more to ship and labor does not get enough to keep it from striking."

Twice as much freight is hauled by the average train as it did twenty years ago, and not twenty times as much, according to Mr. Felton, who added that instead of a labor cost reduction there had been an increase per ton mile of freight of 4.15 mills in 1901 to 9.02 in 1921. Freight rates had advanced only 47 per cent, he said.

"This great increase in the labor costs of operating the railroads is due to advances in wages, and has been the principal cause of the advances in freight rates of which many farmers complain," Mr. Felton said.

As to Shepman's Strike.

Then he took up the senator's reported statement that "The inefficient management of the railroad operators in declining to settle the strike last summer when the strikers practically offered to give in, will also help to rob the farmers through expensive operation resulting."

"Your constituents among the farmers can hardly overlook the fact that the real cause of the 'expensive operation' to which you refer is the strike of the railroad employees, and that that strike was entirely without justification," added Mr. Felton. "It was a strike against a decision of the railroad labor board, a government body awarding a relatively small reduction of wages. Why do you criticize the railroads for not settling the strike and entirely refrain from criticizing the farmers for continuing? The fact is that when you try to speak for both the farmers and the strikers you try to speak for two classes whose interests were wholly antagonistic."

"Even now the railroads are paying their employees over one billion dollars a year more in wages than five years ago, while railway companies themselves are receiving a quarter of a billion dollars less net income than in the same five years ago. This shows who is getting most of the money the farmers are paying to the railroads in high rates."

Mr. Felton says that "it is a well-known fact that the railway labor leaders who supported Mr. Shipstead in his recent campaign for United States senator are seeking adoption of the Plumb plan of government ownership and employee management, and in doing so will not be able to distract public attention in private management that you do."

VOGUE

30th Anniversary Number

Dated January 1—Now on sale—35 cents
(No advance over regular price)

VOGLUE was founded by Society for Society, thirty years ago, when ladies looked like the lady on our left, and wouldn't have considered the lady on our right a lady at all! Would you like to see the path she travelled from then to now? This Thirtieth Anniversary Number of Vogue will show you her whole progress. For three decades, Vogue has been the undisputed mirror of the mode, and, in this most entertaining number of a fashion magazine ever published, it turns this mirror backward for your benefit.

As You Were—1892

Her Diary

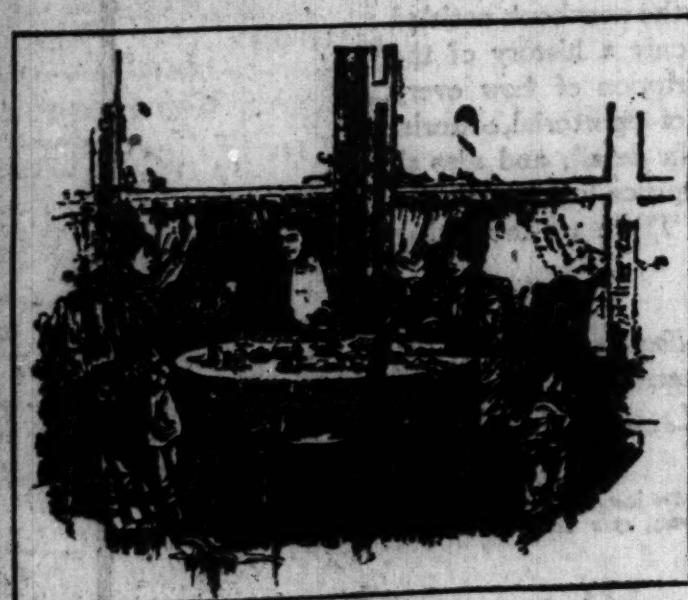

A belle of '92 has given us her diary, with all the gossip of the day in it—clothes she wore, cotillions she danced, people she met, rumours she heard, the Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding, the Bradley-Martin ball, the Coaching Parade, the crushing retort of Mrs. Paran Stevens to the man who asked her to remove her bonnet in the theatre, the first automobile!.... It isn't signed. It couldn't be!

Shops Then and Now

Did you ever hear about the crown jewels that set Lord & Taylor up in business? About the rise of the Red Star over Macy's?—the Philadelphia concern that took over A. T. Stewart's Great Iron Street?—the boy named Franklin Simon who saved a quarter of his salary and was the first to invade Fifth Avenue with his shop under his arm? New York stores will mean more to you than mere dollar signs when you've read "And the Merchant Prince Moved."

Speeding Up

George Chappell has written a delightful article of travel as it was before—and travel as it is since—modern transportation stepped on the world and gave it more gas. Thirty years ago, no one said, "Step lively! Move up, there's plenty of room at the front!" And when you wanted to get change on a Fifth Avenue bus you pulled the strap attached to the driver's leg. Radio did not exist; automobiles and airplanes were not invented; trips abroad occurred only in the most favored lives; and a long distance telephone call was a serious event.

As You Are—1922

THIS number presents thirty years of life on the path of fashion, from the quaint days when New York was just emerging from "The Age of Innocence" and all the debutantes were singing "Two Little Girls in Blue" in plush parlors, to the age of "This Freedom", when all the debutantes are saying "Make it snappy!"

THE illustrations are as amusing as the text. Many of them are lifted bodily from quaint old Vogues of long ago—fantastic things we used to wear, motors we used to drive, places where we used to dine and dance, strange figures we used to cut all contrasted with the newest models, and the last minute forecast from Paris on your spring wardrobe for 1923.

French Gown CONTEST

Twelve famous Parisian dressmakers have made twelve gowns, never shown before, and twelve famous French artists have painted them for this issue of Vogue. Each dressmaker uses some little artifice vitally identified with his work this season.

Vogue invites you to identify which dressmaker made which gown.

The 1922 figure

The winner may choose her favorite and have it made to her own measure in Paris, the bill being sent to Vogue. Other prizes: an evening gown by Bendel and an afternoon gown by Thurn. Contest closes January 25, 1923.

A correct costume for tennis in 1892 which Paris dressmaker is doing gowns like this? . . . Not so hard, is it? . . . Try the eleven others in Vogue.

A 216 Page Vogue

Paris Fashion Pages in Full Color

More amusing than any comedy, more authentic than any text book, more vivid than any painting, is the picture presented in this Anniversary Number of the 30 years which have seen more extraordinary changes, made more rapidly, than any other 30 years in the history of the world.

YANKEE NEGROES IN PARIS BEAT UP MAN WITH BRIDE

BY HENRY WALES.

(Oprnrt: 1923: By the Chicago Tribune.)
PARIS, Jan. 1.—An attack on an American and his bride and a British officer by two Negroes in Paris early this morning outside of Ciro's restaurant, which is investigating by the American embassy and the pre-ture, to obtain deportation of many American Negroes infesting the vice resorts of Montmartre.

Brain Knuckles Lawyer.

Dick Bullard, an American Negro, who was put out of the French aviation during the war because he refused to battle German airplanes, struck Harry Gilliland of Stockton, Calif., in the head on the floor of the Negroe's hotel of his bride. Bullard then swung on the jaw of Baron Ronald Reuter, a lieutenant in the British army, son of Baroness Reuter, who is the widow of James Gordon Reuter, who had dined with the McClellan party.

Colonel Kiley, former naval attaché of Chicago, was passing as Bullard and to kick the prostate Mr. McClellan, and Mr. Kiley punched the Negro. Ned Hillsberg of Sarasota also sides the white men, beholding all with an umbrella.

Let Negro Go.

The police took the McClellan party and Mr. Hillsberg to the station, but released Bullard and the other Negro when it showed enlistment papers and aviators of the war. Mr. McClellan, not being able to speak French, was unable to have them searched for brain knuckles.

The American colony here is determined to end such outrages, as Negroes are insulting, assaulting, and robbing tourists in Montmartre, and neither the police nor American authorities apparently are able to deal with them.

GREB-ROPER GO ENDS AS POLICE PULL MEN APART

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of the Tribune boxing-removals are:

At Pittsburgh—Harry Greb beat Bob Roper [10].

At Philadelphia, Pa.—Pancho Villa beat Eddie Murray [8]; Carl Trebilcot beat Jake Johnson [8]; Art Mizell beat Eddie Murphy [8]; Harry Bright beat Lew McFarland [8]; Joe Colletti stopped Johnny Maylock [4].

At Akron, Ohio—Edith Sherville stopped Ray [10].

At Indianapolis—Bob Taylor knocked out Harry Vogel [11]; Louis Levell knocked out Jack Curley [4]; Mickey O'Dowd beat E. D. Clegg [10].

At Tulsa, Okla.—Kid Sparks and Billy Long, draw [10]; Jackie Barnhart knocked out M. O. Johnson [3].

At Columbus—Old Barbizon beat K. W. Jenkins [12].

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 1.—[Special]—Harry Greb, light heavyweight champion, gave away twenty-four pounds in weight to Bob Roper, but a nifty landing in the tenth round bout here today that turned into a grudge fight beginning with the third round. Greb took seven rounds while the first two and last were even.

Neither fighter paid much attention to Referee Jonniger and both refused to break in the breakaway and continuing to fight after the bell rang several times.

Roper's eyes were badly swollen, the right nearly closed, while in the left he had cut over Greb's right eye. It took efforts of each man's seconds and half a dozen policemen to separate the men when the bell ended the fight.

TAYLOR KAYOS
VOGEL IN FIRST ROUND OF SCRAPPY

Indianapolis, Ind.; Jan. 1.—Bob Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind., bantamweight boxer, knocked out Benny Vogel of Milwaukee, in the first round of a scheduled ten round contest here today. A punch to the jaw ended the bout two seconds before the bell would have brought the round to a close.

Vogel, the Indiana lightweight champion, knocked out Jack Curley of Culver, in the fourth round of a scheduled ten rounds.

VILLA POMMELS
MURRAY IN EIGHT
ROUNDS AT PHILLY

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 1.—Pancho Villa, flyweight champion, easily defeated Battling Murray of this city today in the principal bout of a New Year's card. The three of eight rounds of the Philadelphian each weighed in at 110 pounds.

Carly Tremaine of Cleveland beat Jabs White of Albany in eight rounds of swift fighting.

WILSON, DRAKE
SPORT HEAD, WED

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 1.—[Special]—Miss Dorothy Shade and Kenneth L. Wilson, former Illini basketball captain and member of the Olympic team which competed in the city, today announced their retirement from the basketball profession, if a report in circulation today is true.

According to this report, efforts are being made to have John E. Tener, ex-governor of Pennsylvania and former president of the National league, accept the office. Mr. Tener was elected president of the National League Dec. 9, 1912, and held the post until December, 1913, when he was succeeded by John A. Elyader. He played professional baseball in his younger days, starting his pitching career in the New England area with Webster O'Neil, now manager of the Brooklyn club, as his bottom mate. He was a member of the Chicago Nationals in 1903 and 1909.

KLINE RESIGNS AS FLORIDA COACH

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 1.—W. G. (Bill) Kline, three years head coach of athletics at the University of Florida, tendered his resignation to the athletic board of control in Gainesville, to become effective at once, it was announced yesterday. Kline will enter business. Kline came to the Gainesville institution from University of Nebraska, where he was head coach for one year and was for seven years athletic director at Illinois Wesleyan.

Mysterious Amateur" to Box at Arcade Tonight

Now comes a "mystery man" among local amateur boxers. Fred Prehn, wrestling and boxing coach at the University of Illinois, plans to spring him on some opponent at Kid Howard's Arcade gym tonight. Either Joe Ray, John Dipro, or Jack Kolla will be selected to face the mysterious one. Amateurs of all weight divisions will appear in other bouts.

Richard Working to Match
Willard and Luis Firpo

New York, Jan. 1.—[Special]—Luis Firpo versus Jim Willard for fifteen rounds. There's a match which Richard is working on and Tex will know in the next few days whether he can put it over or not. Willard sent word today to Richard that he would be in New York before Jan. 12, prepared to talk turkey in the hope that it will lead up to a match with Jack Dempsey.

SHEVLIN STOPS PRYEL

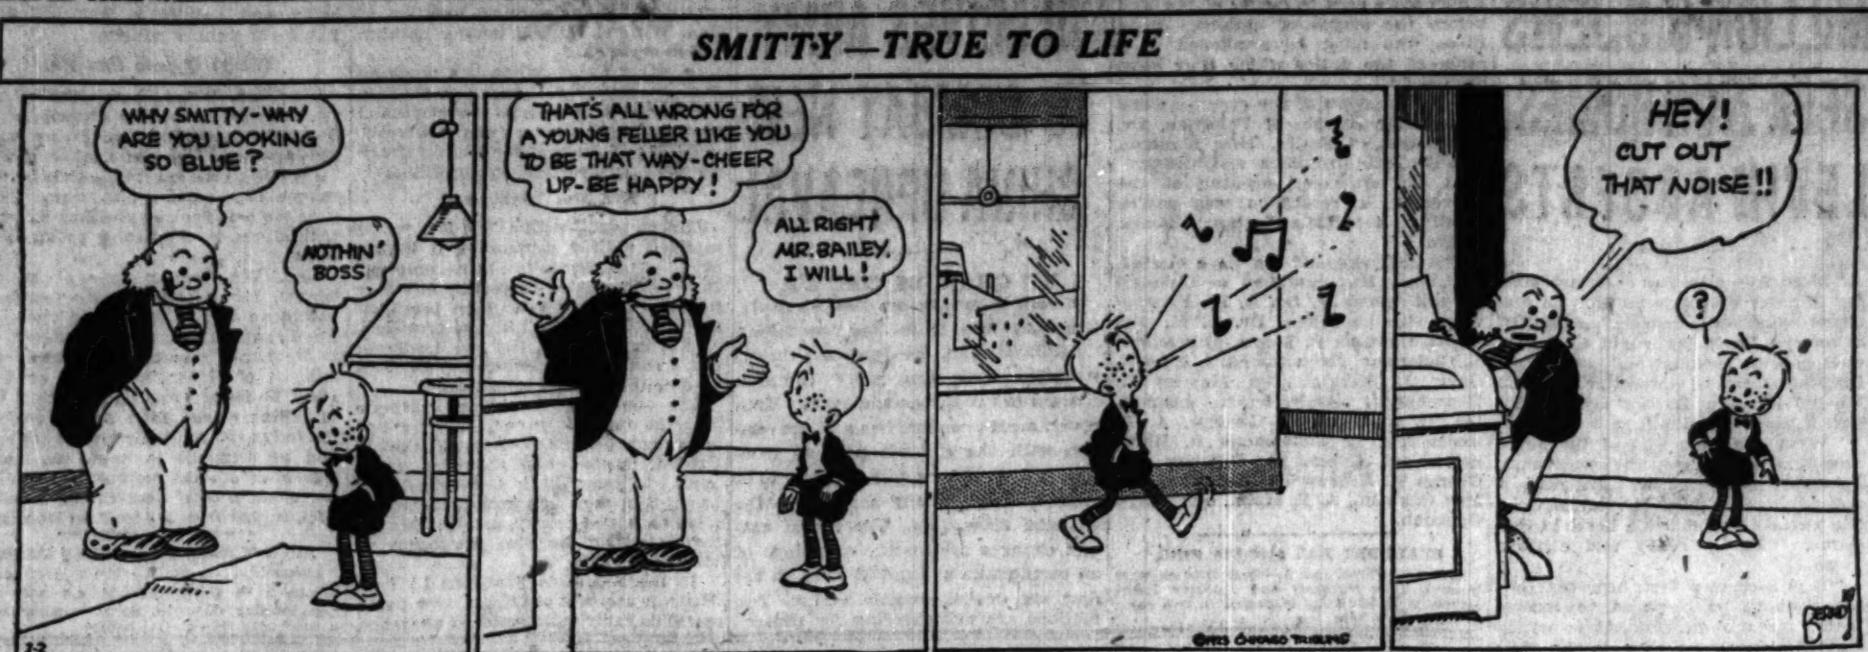

Louis, Mass., Jan. 1.—Eddie Shevlin of Monterey won a technical knockout over Ray Pryel of Pittsburgh this afternoon. The Pryel was stopped in the second round and was given further punishment. They are heavyweight.

TIPLITZ BEATS MITCHELL

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 1.—[Special]—Joe Tiplit, Philadelphia crack lightweight, had little trouble defeating Ray Mitchell, also of Philadelphia, in a fifteen round bout today. Mitchell was outpointed and outboxed throughout the contest.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

Alumn. 23; Brandon beaten 15. Alumn. 25; La Grange beaten 14. Alumn. 20; La Grange 18.

HATES TO QUIT

HARRY GREB.
America's light heavyweight champion, known more as a boxing master than aggressive puncher, got his dander up in last night's bout with Bob Roper, and the two had to be pried apart at the end of the allotted ten rounds.

MACK'S NO BEER LAW CAUSED 1914 SLUMP TO BRAVES, BENDER SAYS

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 1.—[Special]—Beerlessness caused the downfall of Connie Mack's famous baseball machine eight years ago.

Chief Bender, who is now making his living in the city today through the intervening sixteen years, had a no beer pledge which Mack exacted from the Athletics players the last six weeks of the 1914 season is what put the skids under the vaunted "A's" and caused them to go stale. He says the abstention from beer allowed the Boston Braves to walk away with four straight.

Most all of the old Athletic players liked their beer, Bender declared. Collins, Baker and Melvin were the only exceptions.

"We weren't going any too steady anyway," he explained, "but when Connie came and got us to make that pledge because he thought we were slowing us up, he fined the lot of us $100 a day out of our earnings."

The Marriage Flaw

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

John Corbyne, one of Durand's financiers, is about to become a member of the cabinet. Corbyne threatens to re-open their divorce case on a technicality unless he returns to live with his ex-wife. He goes back to Katherine, but if the case were reopened it would create great trouble. To stiffen Sylvia's back to the blow by arousing her pride, he pretends he has been loved by another woman.

Corbyne goes to the scenes. He has changed his appearance slightly, but Carfax and Mrs. Felt are shocked to see him. Corbyne apologizes, but appeals to him as a man of honor. Corbyne goes to the arangement and although she knows he is her husband, she will not leave him. John, who is evidently being coached in her part, objects to his double role of Durand in town and Sylvia at Raling and renewes her threats, but John decides to carry his agreement with Carfax and Sylvia in order to save the financial situation.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

DEAGLE.

Corbyne's mind had been made up within ten minutes. He listened intently to an ear open for any genuine argument that might be advanced and heard none. He was already considering the terms of his reply when he felt his eye draw to the table where the secretaries were sitting.

He looked up—straight into the eyes of Mr. Felt—Mr. Felt of Ealing, who played quite like a professional, was something in the city—was secretary to Cattell & Son. That, of course, was where he had heard the name of Katherine's gimp-crack drawing room.

Mr. Felt stared back at him very hard indeed, and then abruptly removed his eyes.

At the same moment some one touched Corbyne upon the arm. A man was proffering a note.

"What's that?" snapped Corbyne.

Corbyne tore it open. There were only a few lines in the secretary's handwriting.

"He inquires at Mansfield Mansions. The resident who answered the telephone call from Raling on the evening of the 10th is Mr. Mortimer Deagle."

The deputation was awaiting the minister's reply.

Corbyne made a pretense of sorting his notes to cover his breathlessness. He felt quite genuinely breathless. So Chancy 7124 was Deagle! Deagle! It was astounding, Corbyne told himself, that in his speculations as to the identity of Katherine's furtive friend he had considered only the possible danger to his private life. He had prepared for blackmail, but a blackmailer based on his private knowledge. Then he had run up of Katherine's debts with the big business men—the wool combines was a danger as unexpected that Corbyne could not immediately forum it. Let's see, how would it work out when Deagle and he came to grips? "If as minister of credit you interfere with me and my gang of grafters I'll—"

Evidently Deagle ruled with a rod of iron.

What?

Corbyne found himself on his feet, speaking with ease. The prime minister's counsel was in his ears. "Always talk about something—there is always a something else." In the meantime one could think.

"Gentlemen, I thank you for the clarity with which you have stated your case. Do not be misled when I say that you have thoroughly convinced me that the measure you advocate would place the industry you represent on a sound basis."

Cattell seemed about to remark, "Hear, hear," but Corbyne fixed him with his eye and willed him to silence. Cattell was Felt's employee. Who would reveal to him the enigma of his discovery or would he keep it for the time being?

"It would no doubt be a comparatively easy matter for the government to stimulate any given industry by the methods you propose. The government, however, is faced with many problems."

Corbyne enlarged upon the problems with which the government was faced. He was a pleasant if far from remarkable man. His manner contrast to the others, who were politely attentive, was his boredom. Corbyne realized that in one sense he had as yet the advantage of Deagle. He knew that the minister of credit was worth his while to employ subtle, underhand methods in order to obtain information about the private life of the prospective minister of credit. And Deagle did not know that he knew.

Deagle recrossed his legs and raised a hand to his mouth. It might have been a yawn that he hid, or a smile. Something stirred in Corbyne. Deagle, Felt, Katherine—spying, intriguing, haggling, cheating—holding up the clean, honest work that saved men's souls—damn them, damn them all! They had their worst at once they could not balk him yet; they could not drag him down today or tomorrow, and already the work had begun and today and tomorrow would see that the seal upon it and speed it upon an unassailable way.

The change in his tone made Cattell blink.

"In the present crisis, the gravity of which it is impossible to exaggerate," continued Corbyne, "the government could take no more fatal step than to favor one industry at the expense of another. I regret, therefore, gentlemen, that I can hold out no hope whatever of the government being able to accept your proposals in the near future."

Cattell was on his feet, re-arguing his point. Corbyne was thinking that there would be trouble with the prime minister when his answer was reported. But then there would be trouble with Felt and Deagle, too. No, he had the proper answer to that deputation of sharks, and the more properly they received it within the limits of courtesy the better for the government and the nation. If Cattell went to go on talking like that he would get an even straighter answer.

But Cattell had no need to do so. Evidently Deagle ruled with a rod of iron. His face had the look of iron. Obviously Deagle was a man like that slinking into the porter's lodge for a trysting conversation on the telephone! The riddle as to how he had come into contact with Katherine and acquired such ascendancy over her would have to wait. Deagle was uttering threats and demands and Corbyne could see that his object was to get him out of his difficulties. Here, at any rate, was the blood in Deagle's manner. He was much too flowered for a gentleman. Huh! he could be thorny, too.

At a later date, when he accepted full responsibility for the state of our case in a somewhat different light.

Corbyne was thinking that that would be the different light in which Deagle would state his case to the minister of credit. Felt would probably want five hundred or so. Deagle wanted corruption of the ministry. Well, it was an old old problem and there would be plenty of precedents to guide him in a choice. Every man has his price. He knew Deagle's mind well enough. Pelt's. He would have to fix his own price. Should he demand the safety of Sylvia and the Jobber or the unblushing honor of John Corbyne? A bit difficult, that! In the jargon of his new trade, he would require details of that question.

Felt, Deagle, and Corbyne. That would be the different light in which to regard Pelt. After his silence. It did not cross Corbyne's mind, unimportant with him, that money barter might be genuinely outside Pelt's code. Corbyne reflected merely that Pelt could not demand more than five hundred, for if he were to write to the prime minister with a scandalous proceeding, he would be hampered by the fear of libel.

Treat Given Music Lovers by Spalding

Violinist's Recital Pleases Large Audience.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Orchestra hall maintained a double celebration for entering the new year through the medium of music. With a recital by that good violinist, Albert Spalding, in the afternoon, and a popular concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in the evening, two first class events were up for hearing, and two readings of large dimensions were entertained.

In the finer aspects of violin playing Mr. Spalding occupies a position among the first of the art. There are other players who can extort a larger tone from a violin, and yet others with the ability to keep a greater number of glittering fireworks juggling in the air. But Spalding's forte is what comes to honest, straightforward, musicians playing with a bit of imagination in it, he belongs among the best. He has fewer personal mannerisms and eccentricities than any of the others, and so has his playing. As a result, he is the Frank Scotta for violin and piano as played by him and André Benoit yesterday, also belonged among the best. They gave it a touch of greatness.

Mr. Spalding started to be a violinist when he was a resident of Chicago. I do not know whether he continues to claim Chicago as his home town, but he does not seem to be a native. The fact he is an eminent though perfectly citizen of the world, playing everywhere and being recognized everywhere for the excellent artist he is. In the course of his journeys he manages to do some composing. There were two arrangements and four compositions from his pen on his program.

"La Traviata" was repeated last night at the Auditorium, with Amelita Galli-Curci, Tito Schipa, and Giacomo Regini in the cast. "Il Trovatore" will be sung again tonight by Claude Muzio, Cyrena Van Gordon, Giulio Crimi, and Carlo Formichi. Ettoore Patricioli conducted.

Presentation of "Forza del Destino," scheduled for Thursday night, has been postponed until Saturday matinee on request of Ross Raisen. The Thursday night production will be "The Jewess," with the addition of a new song, "New Moon." Miss Raisen sang "New Moon" with Charles Marshall, Angelo Minghetti, Virgilio Lazzari, Desire De Lauro, Salvadore Civati, and Miles Luka.

"Forza del Destino" will take the place of "The Girl of the Golden West" Saturday afternoon.

There are a number of overdrawn and improbable situations in the story. Main Street may be narrow but I don't believe it is the rock bottom of society. The wife needs a friend it's a wise thing to be as a human being to have a friend. You never know when the fellow who is down in the dumps is going to come up. When he comes up (if he does) he's apt to be twice as bad and twice as vicious as when he went down. Merely being able to deliver a well deserved wallop to those who kicked him when they thought he had no comeback.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. Today's question: Joseph R. Daly, 3833 North Ward street, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Which are the more attractive to men, blondes or brunettes?

Where Asked.

La Salle and Washington streets.

The Answers.

Abraham Steinberg, 1665 South Michigan avenue, china painter—I don't know, for sure. But I recently met a blonde girl and I like her better than I do the brunettes. The leading lady at a show we attended the other night was a blonde and you could tell that every man in the house was crazy about her.

Miss Evelyn Young, 1806 South Kildare avenue, college student—I think the blondes—I don't know why, and I'm a blonde myself. My friends say that blondes are the more attractive. You see a blonde and a brunette side-by-side and everyone looks at the blonde first. Come between two men.

TODAY IS LUCKY FOR THIS INDUSTRIAL.

This should prove a successful day if application and good judgment are observed. The sun is parallel with Mercury, which spells an aspect benevolent, according to astrology. Uranus is slightly adverse later in the day, so you are advised to do your work, ask favors, and seek employment in the meantime.

Those whose birth date it is have the forecast of an uneven year ahead, the troubles of which will be mitigated by the avoidance of worry and quarrels and speculation of money.

You have marked executive ability, and undoubtedly will prove a leader in everything, small or great, a characteristic spirit over playmates. You make up your mind and are determined to the point of stubbornness. You will carry your point even though not sure of its successful outcome. You have a deep and abiding love toward your family. Their interests are ever first in your mind. You are not that type who is always the center of attraction, but, nevertheless, you are deeply loved by your friends in spite of your tendency to dominate and rule. You have quite a vein of vitality which makes you quite delightful at times. A child born on this day will be quick, sharp and independent in thought and action. Its success will depend upon its home influence.

Jewel of Friend.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 21 years old. I pal with another girl more attractive than I. She receives more attention. I am sure that the reason for this is her looks. This hurts me, and sometimes I am tempted to end our friendship on this account. With me she is nice, but with men she is different. She seems to be all attention to them. I like her with the exception of these faults. Would you advise me to overlook this, and continue her friendship?"

A Little Grin."

A jealous little child, you are. Quite frank about it, though. Cannot you accept the girl's greater popularity with good grace? She cannot help it if she strikes the male fancy more than you. You are not being a good sportsman.

Intentions the Best.

I was invited by my best beau to dinner at his home. My main ambition was to make a good impression on his father and mother, because I had hopes of being more than a friend to their son some day. We had a good time, but, unfortunately, the mother excused herself for not having a nice time.

Much to her surprise, also mine, I said, "Well, it isn't much worse than that little imitation of a supper we had last night John was over to work."

Of course what I really wanted to do

I could make over for my children and myself. I would certainly appreciate it. The oldest is 5, the others 4, 3, and 1 year old.

Work in Vain.

A few years ago while we were living on a farm I was making a vain attempt to sell an old horse and the prospective buyer and I were looking him over. I was listing the horse's merits.

"Does this horse ever kick?"

"No," was my quick reply, "he never kicks."

Then my grandson came skipping into the barn and, having overheard the last of our conversation, exclaimed, "Why, grandpa, don't you remember this morning he kicked you when you—?"

I did not tell the horse to that particular person.

Export of the Metal May Exceed Import.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—Possibility of shifts in the international movement of gold resulting some time this year in the gold exports from the United States exceeding imports is being discussed here on the basis of statistics on gold transfers for the eleven months ended Nov. 30 last.

Exports, made public today, show that gold imports by the United States for the eleven months aggregated only $249,000,000, a decrease of $411,000,000, or 62 per cent, from the figures for the corresponding period of 1921.

Exports Are Going Up.

While the imports were decreasing exports were going up at the rate of 67 per cent. The exports, so negligible were only $26,000,000 for the eleven months against $112,000,000 for the same period of 1921. It can only state that the trend is unmistakable and, if continued, warrants the assumption that the country before many months will be sending out more gold than it receives.

The gold receipts are said to have been the smallest in five years, and imports to some officials are regarded as evidence of a decline in foreign trade with the United States, rather than as decreased or decreased outgoing business or trade for the United States. Conditions, however, are regarded as pointing to a continuation of the export flow, even in the face of payments on account of the allied debts.

India and Canada Prosper.

India and Canada took most of the gold exported by the United States. The prosperity of both countries was responsible for the increase of gold sent.

In the case of Canada most of the gold sent there was freighted in Garter, when the Canadian dollar was at a premium.

The third factor affecting American gold imports is said to be the exhaustion of the Russian gold reserves and the consequent reduction in shipments to the United States by France and Russia.

Brazil President Extends State of Siege Decree

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 1.—The state of siege which was declared July 5 of last year has been extended to April 30 by a presidential decree issued today.

ADJUSTMENT OF TARIFF DUTIES WILL SPREAD FAR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—[Special.]—When the tariff commission finally orders formal investigations of complaints against duties of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law, entire schedules may be opened up to scrutiny instead of confining attention to particular items.

Chairman Thomas G. Marvin of the commission favors proceeding on this plan. He takes the position that duties in the principal schedules are so related to other rates that, if the modification of one is attempted, others must be adjusted correspondingly.

The committee has received about 100 applications for action under the elastic provisions of the new law. Of these about sixty items fall within the jurisdiction of the commission. Out of the sixty about half are for increases in duties, while the other half are for decreases.

Budapest Police Arrest 12 Forgers of American Money

VIENNA, Jan. 1.—Twelve men, most of them printers, have been arrested by the Budapest police, charged with counterfeiting $5, $10, and $50 notes to the amount of $40,000. The greater part of this counterfeit money is said to be in circulation in the United States. The police are making attempts to trace the gang's confederates abroad.

TRADE IN OILS BRIGHT SPOT OF LONDON MARKET

BY ROBERT STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright 1923 by The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Tribune Radio.—The short week between holidays and a general lull in business developments reduced trading on the London financial markets to a nominal volume during the last week. The tone throughout, however, was firm and a few bright spots materialized. There was some uneasiness at the opening of the stock exchange Wednesday over the trend of the nation's discussions at Lausanne and also over the reparations commission's vote to the German government regarding the default in timber deliveries and continental exchanges caused of somewhat as a result. Later, however, the underlying confidence reasserted itself and the close was satisfactory.

FRENCH BONDS RECOO.

The gilt edged securities section underwent a period of restricted fluctuation, but rallied and finished with most of the leaders showing gains. Foreign securities were scarcely so favored, the French bonds receding slightly before the dismal prospect of next week's Paris conference. Home rates generally were active. Scottish issues fared with mild advances. Foreign rails were dull, with little change from last week's closing prices.

The market for oils was distinctly alive and provided the week's feature. American oils were steady.

INDUSTRIAL SECTION ACTIVE.

The industrial section also was active, interest centering chiefly on textiles, which rose moderately. Steels moved irregularly, but closed well. Tobaccos were steady.

In mining, little tendency to branch out was manifested, and while the holdings generally were firm, few sales were recorded. Kaffirs were dull, but buying of Rhodesians on Paris account stimulated the latter, and the close was strong. Diamonds also were in demand from the continent and they rose accordingly.

Rubbers grew steadily harder, although not providing any brilliant features.

Prestige, in a business man—and in a bank—is the fruit of a definite policy, proved over a period of years to be fair, wise and successful.

The policy of this Bank is to protect and build up the interests of its patrons. Our regular customers have first call upon the resources of the Bank. We are content to increase our list of commercial accounts gradually, with the assurance that we can care for them thoroughly and hold them long.

Adhered to for more than fifty years, this policy has attracted an imposing list of fine and conservative banks and business concerns in Chicago and throughout the Middle West. It is only natural that by half a century of association with such names, the Union Trust check has come to imply character, in those who use it.

The steady, conservative growth of this Bank is indicated by the increase in deposits for the past fifteen years—

FORTY-ONE YEARS

S. W. STRAUS & CO.
THE year 1923 marks another milestone in the record of S. W. Straus & Co.—now 41 years without loss to any investor.

Two wars and four panics have shaken the United States since S. W. Straus & Co. was founded in Chicago in 1882. The institution which can pass victoriously through periods of extreme crisis and still grow—grow constantly in success, in established supremacy, in the widespread confidence of the public—must be founded on the right principles, and must be directed by men of experienced judgment, men resolute enough, whatever befalls, to make these principles a fixed policy.

For forty-one years S. W. Straus & Co. has held to the basic principle of its founder, "No Loss to Any Investor." In all this time, through prosperity and panic, we have steadily adhered to the one idea of safety, until our organization has spread all over the country with offices in forty cities, serving a clientele of tens of thousands of investors.

We have become the largest first mortgage real estate bond house in the United States, not through conscious effort toward that end, but through our increasing efforts to safeguard investors. Accordingly, we have built up a personnel of trained and experienced specialists—an organization fully equipped to safeguard the hundreds of millions of dollars which have passed through its hands.

In good times and in bad times, for these reasons, the Straus Bond has uniformly yielded the highest return consistent with safety.

January investors will find it to their advantage to write for our current offerings. Ask for Booklet L-10

OVER 2 BILLION IN RICH 'MELONS' BY STOCK ROUTE

New York, Jan. 1.—Increases in capital stock of several hundred corporations in the last three months of 1922 have amounted to more than $2,000,000,000 and indications are that the total soon will be greatly increased. Nearly all of these increases have been distributed to stockholders in "stock dividends."

The Standard Oil companies and subsidiaries have led the list in the size and amount of their stock dividends. The industries involved have included safety razor companies, banks, cotton mills, insurance companies, machine shops, and manufacturing concerns. The stock dividends have ranged from 3 to 2,000 per cent of the outstanding capital stock of the corporations.

Action迟缓 in October.

Last October brought rumors in the financial districts that many big oil companies and corporations were contemplating stock dividends after capitalizing their large surpluses. Stock quotations of those companies rose sharply, but almost invariably fell off again after the stock dividends were declared. The big Standard Oil companies were among the first to increase their capitalization and declare dividends in stocks, and then the movement became general.

Many of the stockholders receiving stock dividends on their holdings found, ip effect, that they had received the equivalent of four quarters for the dollar they had held before, as there was no prospect of receiving more cash dividends in the future on their increased stock holdings than they had received previously.

Legislation Feared.

The general belief in Wall street is that the reason for the great number of stock dividends declared is that companies with large surplus earnings have been using them to levy on their surpluses.

A list of companies which have increased their capitalization $10,000,000 or more, and the percentage of stock dividends paid on common stock outstanding, follows:

Chicago's Lake Front as New Year Is Rung In—Heroic Policeman Wounded—Klan Secrets Bared

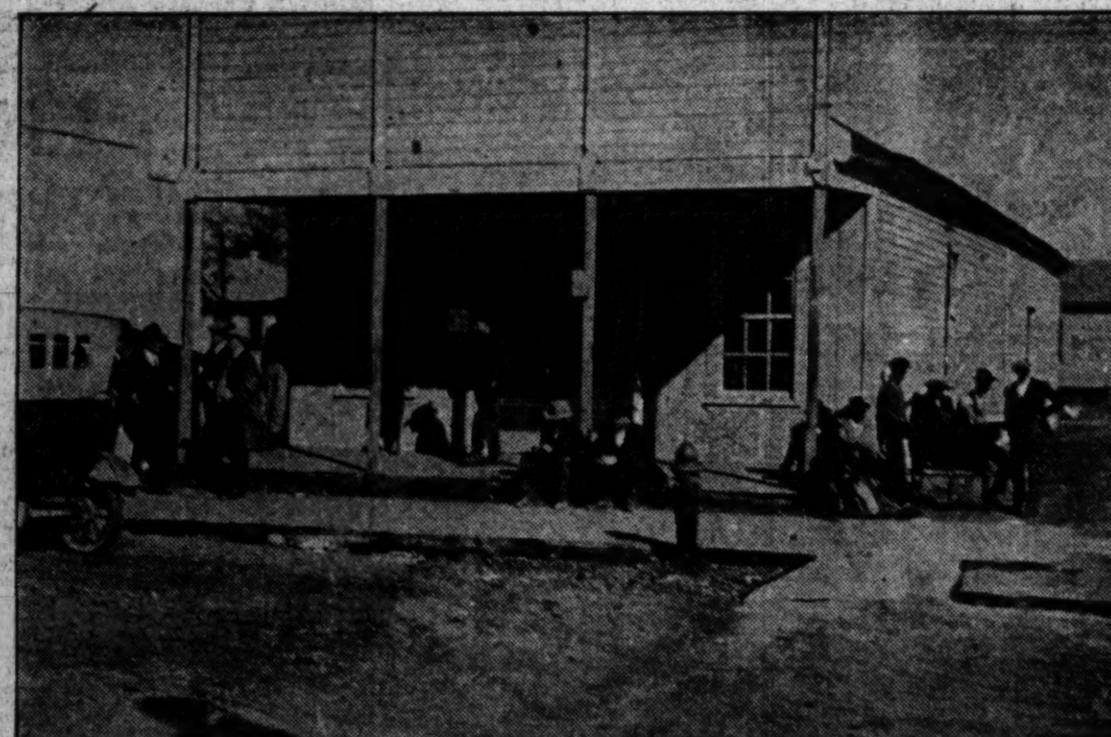

JUST AS THE OLD YEAR SAID "GOOD BY" TO ONE OF THE WORLD'S FAMOUS BOULEVARDS. Pin points of light on a curtain of darkness—a thousand twinkling stars studding skyscrapers of stone and steel—a pathway brilliantly lighted at midnight. That was Michigan boulevard looking north from the Field museum on New Year's eve. The shaft of light in the distance is the Wrigley tower. Surely this is a remarkable photo of Chicago's magnificent lake front.

DIVIDE VICTORY IN ORGANIZATION OF LEGISLATION

Barr and Shaughnessy Caucus Chosen

By a Staff Correspondent
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 2.—Small and anti-Small forces in the caucuses organization of the state tonight. The administration has recently acquired all first test in the senate. The election is ahead in the house.

Senator Richard J. Reynolds was selected for a seat in the Senate after the Roos of Oak Park, had been chairman of the Republic. Their choice was made on the 11th. The vote was in favor of the first defeat of Glenn allies, who had been defeated in the election.

The state administration point when Adolph Mack was given a voice in the proceedings. On the face of it, Burns Norman H. Macpherson, Democrat, was elected. The voting board later ruled against Macpherson. Macpherson was given a seat in the Democratic caucus.

Shanahan Wins in Illinois
David E. Shanahan of Chicago selected for the speaker publican house caucus. Shanahan named on the fifth ballot received fifty-three votes, more than were required.

Norman G. Flagg of Marion received twenty-five votes on the ballot, after Gotthard A. speaker of the Fifty-second assembly, and the Small. The present session, will be received only sixteen votes.

With the speakership on the ballot, elected Miss Williamson county and former Representative Perkins of Logan county.

Statement by Shanahan, following election said:

"I will enter the speakership of any kind, faction or combination, have been a candidate and member of the house to vote."

Mr. Shanahan indicated his plan will be to complete organization tomorrow, to vote for state officers Thursday recess until next Tuesday.

"The selection for speaker harder for the dry," said Brule, "but we will fight our law enforcement program seems to me that this will be a session for no one to be chosen for."

Devir and Devine
John T. Devir of the district was named minor in the senate in the Democratic when Senator Edward J. the Twenty-first district, leader in the last session, be a candidate. Devir was a vote of 7 to 3 over Herbertson, new senator from the triad.

Perfect harmony between Democratic house cause agreed on Representative vine of Dixon for minority party candidate for speaker. Representative Devine, leader of the last session, nominated tomorrow by Representative Michael L. Iglesias, Democrat of the Fifty-first assembly, Representative Iglesias of the Democratic cause.

Statement by Senator

Following the defeat in the senate caucus, Senator made the following statement:

"We will stand with the administration for all good legislation, will not attempt to cripple the governor except that we will watch legislation by the administration and our judgment, that legislation will not be strenuous."

"We will do the best we can in the omnibus bill in the manner passed two years ago and able to defeat it if time for consideration is not given."

"We will oppose the proposed state highway program for purposes."

"We insist that a full report be made of all expenses giving the names and amounts on the rolls."

"Although six senators at the last moment under of secret ballot we bear in ill will and will do everything power to make the coming credit to the Republican Party."
